Computer Products/ Software Packaging

Few markets change as quickly and are as competitive as computer software and entertainment media. Correctly packaging your media is the first step to ensure a successful launch. Our commitment to treating the packaging process as an extension of your critical technology sets us apart from all others. We lead in our industry, so that you can lead in yours.

Computer Games & Software Packaging

Software entertainment and game companies compete for a broad range of customers in an industry rampant with short product lifecycles. Few markets are as dynamic and competitive as consumer media. Our success with the top selling names in this market is just one example of where we lead.

Computer Products Packaging

We are known for developing shelf-popping packaging solutions in an industry known for short development cycles. Whether your need is to package uniquely shaped items, maximize shelf space or presence, or launch a completely new line, Neff will deliver for you.

Computer Products / Software Packaging
